In control. Six months after the South Ninth Street Business Association took over control of the Italian Market's stands from the city of Philadelphia, business has been growing, albeit slowly. A new age. Michelle Gambino, the Association's business manager, is trying to keep the market fresh but true to its roots. The Italian Market's stalls stop stalling

In their control. Now that the city no longer controls the market's stalls, growth is coming.

On Jan. 1, the South Ninth Street Business Association took control of its famed outdoor rows of wooden stands from City Council, who passed legislation transferring management to those administrating the Italian Market.

"We're excited to have our market's fate in our hands," said Emilio Mignucci, the VP of DiBruno Bros' cheese-and-charcuterie salon in the market.

Now, six months later, responsibility means the Association and its business manager Michelle Gambino must make stand operators pay annual stall fees and dues while keeping the market up to code.

Gambino states the Association is a "landlord" to its vendors, nearly 70 stalls currently running between Christian and Washington. Though the Italian Market ends at Federal, and the number of stall spaces on both sides of Washington tops off at 160, "you have to start somewhere," she said of her primary goal of revitalizing the main drag and filling the number of empty or dilapidated stalls with merchants offering services different, yet complimentary, to what the market offers.

Its first and only new stall since calling for vendors is Dorrie Gilbert's Ginger Snap's Grocery.

"We also want artisans like we get during our Italian Market Festival for a unique, recognizable shopping experience," Gambino said.

The word "recognizable" stands out as Gambino must play both sides of an old coin — keeping the market steeped in tradition, but making it competitively modern. She laughs about older vendors who "want to work, go home, and aren't interested in being a community."

"However," she adds, "this is a community-minded project, so we're trying to ease them in."

Gilbert said the Association has been welcoming, though several vendors have not. "They're probably suspicious of the newcomer," she said, laughing.

New kid on the block

Easing in to the scene

Though she had logistical issues and she's still waiting for awnings, Gilbert is so enthused about her first month's sales and retinue of regulars, she's making plans for a "brick-and-mortar storefront offering dairy items and prepared food" to go with her stall.

"I'd love new neighbors and it's going to take effort to recruit the vendors they want," said Gilbert, "but the Italian Market could be a more vibrant shopping corridor. It just needs variety and new blood."

Extradite. Man, 89, wanted for war crimes

A Northeast Philadelphia man who stood guard at a Nazi prison camp in Auschwitz may be extradited to Germany and charged with "complicity in the commission of murder of 158 trainloads of European Jewish deportees," according to court documents.

Johann "Hans" Breyer, 89, who was born in Germany but has called the city home for close to 40 years, was arrested Tuesday and entered federal court on Wednesday morning for an extradition hearing. He will be held without bail until officials contemplate his fate, according to the Inquirer. Breyer claims he was mainly used as a laborer and was not responsible for the deaths of any Jewish people.

Defendant acquitted in death of police officer on a bicycle

Sudden twist. A judge threw out homicide charges for the death of an off-duty police officer.

Kareem Alleyne / PPD

Kareem Alleyne, 36, was acquitted of all charges related to the death of Officer Marc Brady on Tuesday, before the case even went to the jury.

Judge Lillian Ransom ruled in favor of a defense motion to acquit after prosecutors rested their case.

"My client feels terrible that Officer Brady died, nobody ever wanted that to happen," Alleyne's defense attorney James Funt said. "But the honest and uncomfortable truth is that it was in fact his [Brady's] fault. Officer Brady was an unpredictable, insanely jealous individual who had a license to carry a gun."

Prosecutors will not retry Alleyne, they said in a statement.

Alleyne was driving away from his girlfriend's home near Musgrave and Meehan streets as Brady biked toward it on July 15, 2012, when the two collided. Brady was pronounced dead 20 minutes later.

Prosecutors argued that Alleyne could have avoided Brady and intentionally struck the officer due to "bad blood" over Alleyne's girlfriend, who was Brady's ex.

"My client had been stalked and harassed for nearly two years by Officer Brady, he filed Internal Affairs complaints," Funt said.

Funt said Internal Affairs recommended stalking charges against Brady.

"Had the D.A.'s office taken action sooner regarding Officer Brady," Funt said, "this would never have happened."

West Philly students visit White House

Innovate. President Obama recognized hands-on math and science students.

Paliya Carter, 15, plans to take her driver's license test 90 days before her 16th birthday, but she doesn't want to take it with just any car. She wants to drive the racecar she helped build.

"I'm going to be sure to ask," Carter, a freshman at the Workshop School, said from the White House on Wednesday.

Carter and her fellow members of the school's student-build team — EVX Team — traveled to Washington D.C. for the first-ever White House Maker Faire, which showed off innovative projects from across the country.

about the Workshop School and the West Philadelphia neighborhood

Her team started with a lightweight Factory Five 818 chassis and dropped in a Volkswagen engine they then modified to run on fryer oil. With their modifications the car gets about 100 mpg, but retains about 200 horsepower.

Simon Hauger, principal and one of the founders of the project-based West Philadelphia school, said of course he would let her drive the car.

"The bigger question is would the school district let her do it?" he said.

Amazon unveils its smartphone

Device. Fire Phone continues Amazon's evolution from online book seller to technology titan.

Amazon.com founder and CEO Jeff Bezos presents the company's first smartphone in Seattle, Washington. / GETTY IMAGES

Amazon.com Inc. jumped into the smartphone market with a handset called Fire Phone that is closely tied to the Web retailer's other services, ramping up competition with Apple Inc. and Samsung Electronics Co.

Amazon Chief Executive Officer Jeff Bezos said at an event in Seattle today that Fire Phone, which is black with a rubber frame and 4.7-inch display, will give consumers direct access to other devices and services from the company. The handset features 3-D viewing and image-recognition technology to make it simpler for users to buy items from Amazon's Web store.

Starting price

199.99

The phone will start at $199.99 and be available on July 25, with AT&T Inc. as the wireless carrier.

"You have to be patient, you have to work at it and you have to obsess about the smallest of details," Bezos said at the event, referring to Amazon's hardware approach. He said he had been asked for years when Amazon would have a phone, and waited until the company could roll out something unique.

Fire Phone will join Amazon's ecosystem of devices so that when a consumer is watching a movie using the company's set-top box, the phone can pull up the actors and other information about what's being viewed through the IMDB service that is owned by the Web retailer. REUTERS

1 Gibson isn't limiting his bias

Mel Gibson's bitter legal battle with ex Oksana Grigorieva has apparently soured him on Russian and Ukrainian women. "He doesn't communicate with Ukrainian or Russian girls anymore. If Mel knows you're from there, he kind of just turns around and leaves," actress Natalie Burn, who plays Gibson's wife in "The Expendables 3," says, according to Star magazine. And that was a problem, because Burn was born in the Ukraine. "The producer was very nice, and he advised me not to tell him," she says, explaining that when Gibson asked if she was Brazilian she replied, "Yeah, that works."

2 Melanie Griffith has a hole in her heart?

Melanie Griffith made quite the statement on the red carpet at the 60th Taormina Film Fest in Italy Tuesday night. By covering up her tattoo of soon-to-be ex-husband Antonio Banderas's name with foundation, she made it clear that we're not going to see any reconciliation. It looks like a bad Photoshop job, but it's really just a bad makeup job. FYI, the wedding ring wasn't on her finger either. It hasn't even been two weeks since the couple announced their divorce. Newly single and ready to mingle, eh, Melanie? Or by leaving the heart surrounding the name still partially visible, are you making a statement that there's a big hole in your heart?

Robert Pattinson and Katy Perry were reportedly "all over each other" after the LA premiere of his new film "The Rover," according to Us Weekly. "When Rob saw Katy, his eyes lit up. She looked gorgeous in a lace sequin black mini-dress, and they hugged and kissed," a source says. "At least 10 hotties were hovering around Rob, but his focus was on Katy. ... When Katy got up from a sofa ... Robert walked over to her. They kissed and hugged again. They were clearly trying to stay under the radar, but they couldn't help showing their feelings."

"Jersey Boys" reveals that the Four Seasons liked to fight a lot. / WARNER BROS. PICTURES

ADMIT ONE

Metro rounds up what's in cinemas this week.

MATT PRIGGE
matt.prigge@metro.us

1 'Jersey Boys'
Admit it: You always suspected Dirty Harry would helm the film of that long-running musical about the squeaky-clean-sounding (but actually super potty-mouthed) '60s radio staples The Four Seasons. Clint Eastwood directs four-part harmonies but doesn't, alas, sing, like he did in 1969's "Paint Your Wagon."

2 'Think Like a Man Too'
The third Kevin Hart picture of 2014 is also the second with him and Michael Ealy, both returning for the follow-up to the surprise 2012 hit. Here, the boys — and also, the ladies — hit Vegas and, let's hope, pay less attention to Steve Harvey's self-help source.

3 'Obvious Child'
The hoped-for breakout film for Jenny Slate ("Saturday Night Live" alum and sociopathic Mona-Lisa on "Parks and Recreation"), this indie comedy stars the actress as a woman who is dumped, fired and knocked up. Then she schedules her abortion for Valentine's Day.

4 'The Rover'
Australian filmmaker David Michod follows up "Animal Kingdom" with a dystopian thriller about a loner (Guy Pearce) who teams up with a gang member (Robert Pattinson) to hunt down some baddies in the continent's endless and oppressive Outback

5 'A Coffee in Berlin'
A hit at Germany's equivalent of the Academy Awards, this dramatic comedy follows the retro black-and-white adventures of a slacker undergoing one of those jam-packed movie days, only in one of the world's prettiest cities.

6 '22 Jump Street'
Undercover cops Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum go to college. But instead of endless jabs at beer pong, most of the jokes mock the very idea of sequels, especially ones that repeat the first one or blow up the budget to ludicrous sizes.

7 'How to Train Your Dragon 2'
Where "22 Jump Street" mocks repeating a surprise hit, this sequel to the lighthearted animated picture about Viking kids riding on cute dragons does something completely (or somewhat completely) different. It goes weirdly dark.

8 'We Are the Best!'
Lukas Moodysson made one of the great, completely non-condescending teen films — 2000's "Show Me Love" — and his latest does the same for tomboyish tweens. Three girls with short hair start a punk band and they suck as much as this film rules, which is to say a lot.

AMAZING DIABETES STUDY
Encouraging Study on TYPE II DIABETES Shows the disease CAN BE REVERSED in as little as 1 WEEK!
A free guide has just been made available to Type II Diabetics detailing an approach that appears to be more powerful than any drug know to modern science. The free diabetic guide explains in plain English how many diabetics have been able to reduce and eliminate their drugs and insulin injections, lose weight without exercise, reduce and eliminate the risk for diabetic complications, restore pancreatic function, and even become non-diabetic. The free guide also reveals rarely used diagnostic testing that is helping doctors understand potential causes of diabetes beyond weight gain, genetics and lack of exercise.

A word from Make Music Philly

Ted Leo will close Make Music Philly 2014 with a concert at Penn's Landing. / GETTY IMAGES

Make Music. Summer hits the ground grooving at Saturday's second annual Make Music Philly, a free, daylong celebration featuring 230-plus performances by amateur and professional musicians at an eclectic mix of more than four dozen locations citywide.

In a town with a national rep for its vibrant summer concert scene, grassroots Make Music Philly stands apart as the only "do-it-yourself" festival. Musicians representing genres from Latin jazz to bluegrass to classical, hip-hop and kids' music will play in public spaces and volunteered venues between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. on the Summer Solstice — the official start of everyone's favorite season and the longest day of the year. The invitation to artists was wide open and the concerts and informal performances have all been "donated" — a testament to the generous creative community in Philadelphia, where music springs from just about every neighborhood.

"The inaugural Make Music Philly day launched a new and wonderful tradition last year, adding a new element to our city's rich musical legacy," said Mayor Michael Nutter. In 2014, it "will bring together even more resident artists, businesses and community organizations in a celebration of musical diversity, ingenuity and Philly pride."

Philadelphia is among more than 800 cities worldwide that will mark June 21 with a bounty of free music. The French started the Summer Solstice tradition in 1982 with the Fete de la Musique, and the United States joined the party in 2006 with National Music Day. Last year, 110 countries participated, highlighting the essential role of music around the globe.

Locally, Saturday's performances will include a few group-participation events. At 10 a.m. at the festival's kickoff ceremony at Love Park, the Philly Drum Project invites anyone with a percussion instrument to join in for a community drum performance. But first you'll be treated to an improvisational performance by a drum ensemble that includes members such as Chuck Treece (G. Love, King Britt, McRad) and Spanky McCurdy (Lady Gaga, Jill Scott). Drumsticks will be available, compliments of Zildjian and the event is sponsored by Tama. At 6:30 p.m. at the Great Plaza at Penn's Landing, those with a yen to play the harmonica can bust out their harps — or use harmonicas donated by Hohner — at a mammoth jam session led by John Colgan-Davis (Dukes of Destiny). That will be followed by a 7:30 concert headlined by indie rock guitarist/singer/songwriter Ted Leo and soul and R&B favorites Lee Fields & the Expressions.

Lee Fields & the Expressions will take the Great Plaza stage too. / GETTY IMAGES

University of Pennsylvania public radio station WXPN-FM (88.5) is the lead organizer of Make Music Philly in partnership with the City of Philadelphia and other cultural organizations and with input from volunteer music industry professionals, nonprofits and community groups. All artists and venues were paired through "matchmaking" software developed for the festival.

Visit MakeMusicPhilly.org for late entries and searchable listings. Updates will be posted to Facebook and Twitter (@makemusicphilly or #makemusicphilly), and all the events can be delivered directly to your mobile phone by downloading the Solstice Music Festival app on your iPhone or Android.

Pool-proof your beauty routine

When someone pushes you into a pool or a giant wave knocks you off your feet, you'll need more hard-core coverage than your usual makeup to keep your face in place. Keep reading for your fresh, new waterproof beauty routine. KIT GILBERT

1 Mascara

Finding a waterproof mascara that comes off as easily as regular mascara took some searching, but these do a great job: Diorshow Iconic Overcurl Waterproof for Brigitte Bardot volume, bareMinerals' Locked & Coated Waterproof Lash Topcoat to turn any mascara into a waterproof one and Maybelline's Full 'N Soft Waterproof Mascara for a natural boost.

2 Concealer

Summer is the time to give your skin a break, but we all get the occasional blemish that we'd like the option of covering up. There are few waterproof concealers on the market, but these are beauty-expert faves: Covermark Concealer for absolutely opaque coverage, Lancome's Effacernes Long-Lasting Softening Concealer SPF 12 if you prefer liquid and Shu Uemura's Pro-Gel Concealer for mid-light coverage.

3 Eyeliner

Water and cat-eyes do mix! For a sharp line that won't budge, try Stila's Stay All Day Waterproof Liquid Eyeliner. Use Becca's Ultimate Creme Eyeliner in Romanesque to build up a thick flick with a brush or go for a hazier, more sultry look with Eyeko's Me & My Shadow.

4 Lips

Getting a lipstick to stay in place is difficult enough when water isn't involved, but these hold their own no matter what. For a prettifying wash of color, try Benefit's posietint (which also works as a blush). If you're going for a Jerry Hall-in-a-swimsuit vibe, try Max Factor's Lipfinity in So Glamorous or opt for Revlon ColorBurst Matte in Unapologetic.

For more beauty tips, visit ModMods.com.

Bronzer

Yep, waterproof bronzer actually does exist. Hourglass Superficial Waterproof Bronzer is Internet-famous for its durability, while Rimmel's Natural Bronzer is a great, inexpensive alternative. Tarte's Amazonian Clay Matte Waterproof Bronzer is another cult favorite.

Summer checklist.
Kinky summer love

Step into the spotlight and take the leading role in your own sex life. To help partners discover and communicate their desires, I suggest creating a "Yes, No, Maybe" list. with your partner. Here's how to start:

1 Brainstorm activities. Handcuffs, spanking, dirty talk, face slapping are just a few items that could be considered. Together with your partner, whip up a list of every sexual activity you can possibly imagine. Hold off on judgments for now.

2 Judge the hell out your list. Be opinionated. Come to conclusions about what you do or do not want done to your body. Make a copy of the sexy list so you each have one. Finish filling it out alone. Next to each activity, write "Yes" if you would like to perform the activity on your lover or have he or she perform it on you. Mark "Maybe" if you are unsure. Pick "No" if you are not interested. This ensures that your list truly reflects your interests.

3 Make sex exciting again. Swap lists with your partner, and use them to get the conversation started. You can always revisit your answers by completing a new checklist at a later date.

Ready to try something steamy this summer? Talk to your partner with this checklist in hand. / PURESTOCK

Visit Metro.us to see more suggestions for your checklist.

Try it yourself

Here's a sample checklist of things you and your partner might want to try:

- ❑ Handcuffs
- ❑ Spanking
- ❑ Oral Sex
- ❑ Hair-pulling
- ❑ Restraints
- ❑ Blindfolds
- ❑ Role-play

No one will stand up to Wall Street

Re: 'Camelot now ruled by robber barons' (Metro, June 18) Letter writer Joseph DuPont hits the nail squarely on the head with his assessment of our recent presidents and Wall Street barons. The situation with the Fed profiteering off the national debt is disgraceful. However, the fact that our leaders allow this to continue is very disturbing. All of Congress is either out to lunch or in someone's pocket. It's too bad that most of the media is also so blinded by their own agenda that they don't care to tackle any of these situations. What happened to the "ballsy pressmen" of the past? C.E. VALLANTE, VIA EMAIL

Banks are pyramid scheme

Re: 'Camelot now ruled by robber barons' (Metro, June 18) Our debt-based monetary system necessitates the lies. Why? Because financial debt with interest is mathematically impossible to pay back in the aggregate. Banks do not lend money, they actually "steal" through a deceptive contract, created by the borrower when they sign a loan with interest. We are all guilty of the pyramid scheme we have bought into. Champs are gone

Spain ousted in pool play

Things really couldn't have gone any worse for the defending World Cup champions in Group B in Brazil, as Spain faltered in a 2-0 loss to Chile on Wednesday. Spain also lost to the Netherlands, and by virtue of the two losses has been eliminated before the knockout round. Australia was also sent home as Chile and the Netherlands advance (after the Dutch beat the Aussies 3-2).

Phillies get back into race for NL East

See more at www.metro.us

MLB. Seemingly out of nowhere the Phillies are suddenly among the hottest teams in the National League.

The Phillies are six games under the .500 mark.

They were 4 1/2 games out of first place prior to the Nationals game against the Astros on Wednesday.

How is this possible when not too long ago, they were double-digits below .500 and appeared to be dead in the water?

Well, if the Phillies played in any other division in the NL, they would be at least 11 games out of first. The team has won seven of their last nine, including sweeps of the Braves (who were in first place) and the Padres. Philly has scored more than six runs per game in their most recent seven wins; this from a team that ranks 24th in the majors in runs scored.

And the bullpen — which started off as the biggest weakness for the Phils — has become a strength. Flexing its muscles against the Braves, the Phils pen allowed just one run in 11 innings pitched. And it boasts flamethrowers like Jake Diekman, Ken Giles and Antonio Bastardo to set up one of the most consistent closers in the game, Jonathan Papelbon.

The club is only one win off the pace of the 2012 and 2013 Phillies teams (33-37) at 32-38. Both those teams had a chance to make a run at the second wild card spot into the fall.

It seems like the old Charlie Manuel manta: "Hittin' season," has arrived for the Phillies. As the weather warms up, so do they.

Phillies offense bursts for 18 hits

The Phillies exploded for a season-high 18 hits in a 10-5 victory over the Braves on Wednesday afternoon in Atlanta, earning a three-game sweep of their NL East rivals and knocking them out of first place.

Five Phillies regulars had three hits in the game, with Marlon Byrd and John Mayberry Jr. each racking up three RBIs.

The Phils tallied seven runs in the first two innings and never looked back.

Roberto Hernandez earned the win after going six innings with Antonio Bastardo and Ken Giles shutting the door with three scoreless frames. EVAN MACY

Maclin gets faster

Eagles receiver says he feels great, faster

There's a lot riding on Jeremy Maclin for the Eagles this season. Luckily, it's been nothing but good news so far in Eagles' OTAs.

"In some ways, I feel faster," he said. "The one thing that's gonna let me know when I get in a game is actually getting tackled, but like I said, by that time I'll be well after 12 months."

His quarterback, Nick Foles, likes what he sees from the receiver already.

"Gut feeling, I think he's better," Foles said. "Mac is one of those guys, he doesn't want to just get back to where he was, he wants to be better." METRO

Kicker controversy

Henery's fate as No. 1 kicker up in the air

The Eagles are pondering possibly having two kickers on the roster, bringing in someone else to kick off and leaving the field goal duties to Alex Henery.

But after Wednesday morning's practice, Chip Kelly wasn't ready to decide what to do about the Birds and their kicker situation.

"I don't deal with hypotheticals," the coach said. "I know Alex has really worked on kicking off in the offseason, a lot of things, and he and [special teams] coach [Dave] Fipp have sat down and talked about, but I'm not a predict-the-future guy." METRO

Eagles have options to return kicks

NFL. Special teams could be a strength for the Eagles, who have many options to bring back kicks and punts.

Sproles /GETTY IMAGES

The Eagles, in losing DeSean Jackson, lot a secret weapon on punt returns. Who can forget the "Miracle at the Meadowlands," or the multitude of other times he was able to jump-start the offense with an electric return?

This year, though it's early, the Eagles seem to have a player just as dynamic in Darren Sproles. They also have a bevy of other return options who could provide a pretty big boost to the Eagles special teams unit.

Sproles had two kickoff returns for scores as a Charger, and three punt return touchdowns, one with the Saints and the other two in San Diego. On the kickoff front, the short speedster amassed more than 20 yards on 238 of 328 kickoff returns in the NFL.

"It's just getting fundamental reps of guys back there fielding balls," Kelly said. "But who it's going to end up being or where it is, Darren is the one proven commodity that has had a lot of success in the league doing it."

The Birds have two rookie wideouts in Josh Huff and Jordan Matthews, each had reps returning balls in college, giving the Eagles some special teams depth.

"[I am] anxious to take a look at two of the young kids," Kelly said. "Josh Huff returned kickoffs in college and Jordan Matthews [who] returned punts in college. So get a chance to take a look at those guys and add them into the mix with some of the other guys we have active. Damaris [Johnson] and Jeff Maehl have returned kicks before. We have always tried to get [Riley Cooper] back there."

Return men

Here's a look at the leading candidates to return kicks and punts for the Birds.

- Darren Sproles: He has five return touchdowns and can turn on a dime.
- Damaris Johnson: He returned a punt for a TD in 2012 and averages 25.9 yards on kickoffs.
- Josh Huff: He returned 43 kickoffs at Oregon.

DON'T CHASE STATS FROM LAST SEASON

Don't be fooled by Knowshon Moreno's move to Miami. / GETTY IMAGES

You won't get any points for last year's stats. It's amazing how many NFL fantasy owners forget that simple concept on draft day.

A surefire way to blow your chances at winning the league is to blindly look at the 2013 season and expect the same thing in 2014. In many instances, past performance is not an indicator of future results. Chase the tails of these guys and get burned.

No Knowshon

Knowshon Moreno was arguably the MVP of the 2013 fantasy season, coming off the waiver wire to finish as fantasy's No. 5 running back. But the NFL knew that was a product of Peyton Manning, as Moreno only could muster a one-year, $3 million contract in free agency. Now Moreno is running behind Lamar Miller in Miami and is a poor bet to get near 1,000 yards. Let someone else think his Broncos "breakout" was for real.

Changing stripes

Bengals quarterback Andy Dalton has the talent of a good game manager. But under pass-happy offensive coordinator Jay Gruden, he was allowed to throw the ball 586 times — eighth-most in the league. That led to a shocking QB5 finish in fantasy. With Gruden now in Washington, new offensive coordinator Hue Jackson is going to reel Dalton in. He'll be more of a caretaker, seeing his attempts slashed while watching Gio Bernard and Jeremy Hill carry the load. Dalton is a backup at the deepest position in fantasy.

"E" is for empty

The Patriots targeted Julian Edelman 105 times last season out of necessity more than desire. If it weren't for Aaron Hernandez's murders, Rob Gronkowski's inability to stay on the field, Shane Vereen's wrist injury and Danny Amendola's groin woes, he never would have emerged as a PPR stud. Tom Brady knows that in order to put crooked numbers on the board, he needs a more diverse attack that doesn't just check down to Edelman. Expect something closer to 70 catches than 100.

Metro does not endorse the opinions of the author.

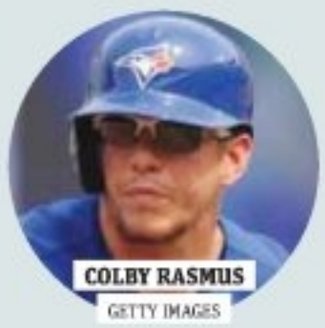
MLB pickups



COLBY RASMUS
GETTY IMAGES

Grab these guys from the free-agent wire before it's too late:

- Colby Rasmus, OF, Blue Jays — He will provide some cheap power as he nears a return from a hamstring pull.
- Andrew Heaney, SP, Marlins — The sparkling prospect with a 2.47 minor league ERA will make his MLB debut Thursday.
- Drew Stubbs, OF, Rockies — Injuries to Carlos Gonzalez and Michael Cuddyer mean regular at-bats for Stubbs in Coors Field.
